Unfortunately despite all my efforts I could not manage to finish the database side of the program. But all the other parts: Client-Server socket communication, thread pool, reader-writer paradigm, no memory leaks, query parsing, even creating and initializing the database but not the database operations due to timing problems even though I had all of it planned. If I am given the change in the demo I can explain every part of my homework I have done properly so I don't get a total '0' as the final grade.
